Man who stabbed home intruder walks free

Court. Crown drops charge, says there's no reasonable chance of conviction

If called upon again, Moses Mahilal would do what he had to do to defend his family.

But, soften-spoken and stoic, Mahilal uttered few words Thursday after the Crown withdrew an aggravated-assault charge laid against him 14 months ago, after he stabbed a man who had broken into the west-end Toronto home he shares with his girlfriend and her mother.

Mahilal, who faced up to 14 years in prison if found guilty, said he was relieved but perplexed it took the Crown as long as it did to withdraw the charge. Asked if he still had faith in the criminal-justice system, Mahilal said he did, "but it took over a year, right? I would expect a couple of months to realize what the situation is."

His girlfriend of five years, Sarah Walsh, did most of the talking outside court Thursday.

"My mother was sleeping; he needed to save her," said Walsh.

She said Mahilal reacted in a heroic way. The couple arrived at the home, near Keele Street and Eglinton Avenue West, just after 3 a.m. on July 31, 2011, and found Kino Johnson hiding in her mother's bedroom.

On Thursday, prosecutor David Fisher told court the Crown was withdrawing the charge after reviewing the evidence and concluding there is no longer a reasonable prospect of conviction.

This summer, Johnson, 33, pleaded guilty to break-and-enter and two counts of possessing stolen property. He was sentenced to 20 months in jail and remains behind bars.

Fisher said at the time police charged Mahilal they had reasonable and probable grounds to do so, but a judge made note of a credibility issue with Johnson, the Crown witness, at a preliminary hearing last month. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Get rid of watchdogs: Ford

Curious timing?
Proposal comes as integrity commissioner rules the mayor violated council's code of conduct

Under fire again from the city's integrity commissioner and ombudsman, Mayor Rob Ford responded on Thursday with a proposal: Eliminate their jobs, plus the job of the lobbyist registrar.

The comments drew scorn from councillors.

"I think that the timing is curious at best," said Josh Colle, a centrist swing voter.

"It's a coincidence, I'm sure," conservative Gloria Lindsay Luby said, laughing.

In reports released on Thursday morning, integrity commissioner Janet Leiper wrote that Ford and his brother, Coun. Doug Ford, violated council's code of conduct in April by publicly disparaging the city's chief medical officer on their radio show after he recommended lower speed limits to save lives.

Rob Ford called Dr. David McKeown's $294,302 salary an "embarrassment."

Doug Ford asked, "Why does he still have a job?" Doug Ford apologized on AM640 on Thursday. Leiper said Rob Ford sent her a "letter of retraction."

In a separate Thursday report, ombudsman Fiona Crean disclosed proof that the mayor's office had sent a list of preferred board candidates to city staff.

But Ford's proposal to axe the integrity watchdogs has zero chance of success. Provincial law requires Toronto to have an integrity commissioner and ombudsman, and there is nearly no council support for scrapping the office of the registrar.

The positions were created several years ago in the wake of the MFP computer-leasing scandal. Ford told The Globe and Mail on Thursday that a single part-time lawyer could handle all of their duties on retainer.

"You don't need a lobbyist register (sic), an ombudsman and an integrity commissioner," he said at a North York football field, where he coached his high school team in a mid-afternoon game.

"They have 20 people. They're tripping over themselves. They're trying to make themselves look busy. I've never voted in favour of it and never would."

But Colle said all three offices are important. "They have very different mandates and responsibilities," he said. "To suggest that one role or one person could carry those out is a little misguided."

Arsonist with 'double life' sentenced to 18 months

Melanie Bos has been sentenced to 18 months in jail for arson after trying to burn down a former lover's house.

Bos was sentenced Thursday afternoon by Superior Court Justice Bryan Shaughnessy, who rejected her lawyer's request for a suspended sentence or an 18-month conditional (house arrest) sentence.

"The question might be asked, 'Who is Melanie Bos and what motivated her to live a double life and web of lies?'" Justice Shaughnessy said.

He praised her volunteer efforts with charities, schools and her church.

However, "She is also manipulative, conniving, deceitful and capable of causing harm to Jim Hoy," he added.

She was convicted in April of arson after a fire was deliberately set in the wall of a 150-year-old house owned by Hoy, whom Bos was seeing at the time.

She had been a rising management star at General Motors, but was fired in August following her conviction. Hoy was a union leader with the Canadian Auto Workers at GM's Oshawa facility when they began dating.

Prostitution victims had fled from group home, police say

Human trafficking. Incident 'branched out' from government-accredited residence

JESSICA SMITH
jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Two teen girls who were taken to Toronto and forced to work as prostitutes had run away from their group home at the urging of a fellow 16-year-old resident, police alleged Thursday.

On Aug. 31, the two girls, aged 14 and 15, were picked up and taken to the city after leaving the home, which police would only say is located northwest of the city.

"Then the victims were forced into prostitution in the Sherbourne Street area over a period of several days," said Det. Mark Benallick at a press conference.

Benallick added officials with the group home filed a missing persons complaint with the Ontario Provincial Police after the girls went missing. They contacted police again on Sept. 7 when the girls returned. Police did not say how the girls were able to return to the group home.

Police launched Project Roxy and arrested a 16-year-old girl at the group home. Over the next month, officers arrested three men in their early 20s. All four are charged with human trafficking and related charges.

"This branches out from the group home, that's where it began," said Benallick.

Benallick said the victims no longer live in the group home in question, which was accredited by the Ministry of Children and Youth Services.

Vulnerable prey

Group homes a magnet for predators

Benallick said human trafficking within the province is more common than many people would like to think. Group homes are concerning for police, he said, because there are so many of them and they're home to vulnerable people.

"They (the victims) see prostitution and pimping glamourized in the mainstream media and think it's a great way to make money, but they don't realize the devastation that goes with it, or they choose to ignore it until it gets over their heads," he said.

"They (human traffickers) prey on vulnerable people," he said. "It's very much a predator relationship — they find a vulnerable situation and they exploit it."

Det. Mark Benallick speaks at a press conference in Toronto Thursday, where he revealed that two teens had run away from their group home before becoming victims of human trafficking. JESSICA SMITH/METRO

Hailo app traps cabbies in crossfire

Taxi war. Hailo Canada president accuses Beck Taxi of intimidating drivers who use another dispatch system

A taxi war is erupting in Toronto, and cab drivers say they're caught in the crossfire.

Barely two months after becoming the city's only licensed cab company based solely on a smartphone application, Hailo Toronto is hurling accusations at chief rival and industry heavyweight Beck Taxi.

Hailo Canada president Justin Raymond alleges the biggest player in Toronto's cab scene is breaking a city bylaw by threatening to discipline drivers that use the upstart Hailo's app to find fares. The city has confirmed it is investigating complaints.

Beck Taxi managing director Kristine Hubbard denied that her company has threatened to discipline drivers. Instead, she said the company has been "educating" cabbies to see that it's inappropriate for Beck-branded taxis use another company's dispatch system.

"Maybe there's been a misinterpretation," she said. "When you're in a Beck Taxi, the service being offered through the Beck Taxi radios are for Beck taxis ... You work for one company or you work for another."

Raymond disagrees, pointing out that taxi drivers are technically akin to independent contractors. There are no bylaws to prohibit them from finding fares using multiple dispatch systems.

According to the Toronto Municipal Code licensing bylaw, no taxi broker can prevent drivers from accepting calls for service on their "normally used" phones.

Metrolinx. City agreement a 'disaster': Councillor

The drama over the city's transit plans hasn't ended yet. Some Toronto councillors are threatening to try to stop the city from signing with Metrolinx and the province to build four LRTs in Toronto.

The councillors say the agreement gives Metrolinx too much authority over the scope of the project, particularly the placement and distance between stations.

They fear that as costs rise, Metrolinx will cancel some stations or build them so far apart the TTC could be forced to run buses along light rail routes.

There is "disaster lurking" in the agreement, said city councillor Gord Perks (Ward 14, Parkdale-High Park). He believes Metrolinx wants the Eglinton LRT to serve the region as much as the city.

Different views

"We recognize their regional perspective. They have to recognize our local perspective."

City councillor Joe Mihevc

"(This) opens the door to them running it as a regional-only service and forcing us to try to carry any local trip on a bus running alongside the light rail line. It's terrible transit planning and I will not vote for an agreement that cedes control over local transit planning to an unaccountable body," said Perks. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Scary storm? Worry not, Toronto trick-or-treaters

Three monstrous weather punches — Hurricane Sandy from the Caribbean, a winter storm from the west and a torrent of arctic air from the north — are expected to collide along the U.S. East Coast early next week, and there's a chance Toronto could be hit by the whiplash.

American weather forecasters say the brunt of the storm will hit Tuesday, but it could stick around for the rest of the week — a chilling prospect for Wednesday's costumed candy-seekers. But don't be too scared; local forecasters say it's very unlikely that the mega-storm will hit Toronto.

"It won't be into Canadian waters until at the earliest next Wednesday, so we won't pick it up until towards the weekend," said Environment Canada climatologist Dave Phillips.

While Snowmaggedon 2.0 isn't on Toronto's radar just yet, "Hallo-wet" looks likely.

"Right now, the lead up to Halloween doesn't look that great. Next week should be kind of cool and wet, but not snowy. You might have to wear a poncho over your costume, but not a parka or toque," Phillips said.

Shoes made with recycled materials and a lot of sole

From Addis Ababa to New York. Ethiopian entrepreneur plans to take her eco-friendly footwear all over the world

ELISABETH BRAW
Metro World News in London

Cool people in Japan wear SoleRebels shoes. So do cool Austrians and Americans. Indeed, the colourful shoes (purple, anyone?), made almost entirely from recycled materials, light up sidewalks in metropolises around the world.

To visit SoleRebels' factory and headquarters, one drives out of Addis, finally reaching a dirt road lined by shacks. Then one reaches an even smaller dirt road, passing children and even the head of a dead goat, stops and knocks on a metal gate.

This is where Bethlehem Tilahun Alemu reigns.

"In Ethiopia people wear footwear made from recycled tires," Tilahun Alemu explains. "Recycling is part of life here. I took that idea and made modern shoes out of it."

She taught herself shoemaking and began designing shoes that feature not just recycled tires — the soles — but also recycled jute and discarded blankets and even old army uniforms. In fact, over 50 per cent of the materials in SoleRebels' shoes are recycled.

Soon, SoleRebels will open its first shops abroad in Taiwan, Canada, Austria, Switzerland and Brooklyn, N.Y.

"My next step is SoleRebels kiosks in different cities," Tilahun Alemu adds.

Quoted

"My next step is kiosks. You measure your feet, choose your style and the order is sent to us."

B. Tilahun Alemu, founder of SoleRebels

Tilahun Alemu will open three new shops internationally. GLYN RILEY/MWN

How does it work?

1 Fabric. A backroom in SoleRebels' factory outside Addis Ababa holds the colourful fabric used for the shoes.

2 Cool colours. Most of SoleRebels' fabric is dyed using flowers, soil and other natural ingredients.

3 Dispatch. SoleRebels sells its shoes in shops abroad, on the Internet, and in its shop in an Addis Ababa shopping mall.

4 Sewing. Seamstresses sow the top of SoleRebels' trademark colourful shoes. MWN

Q&A

'Game changer for Africa'

NDIDI NWUNELI
Founder, leadership training program LEAP Africa, Lagos, Nigeria

Africans are known for being entrepreneurial. What's changing now?

I've worked with entrepreneurs around the world and, yes, Africans are very entrepreneurial. But there's no training available. And in Africa there are very few old companies, so there's nobody who can teach people how to run companies.

My organization teaches people how to build a company, time management, negotiations, how to teach staff values, how to build a company that has integrity. But we don't work with entrepreneurs in the informal economy.

Who becomes an entrepreneur in Africa?

Many people do it because they can't get jobs. The tragedy in Africa is the fact that the government is the driver of growth. But that's changing. There's a boom in entrepreneurship because governments are failing. Doctors are becoming entrepreneurs. There's a huge boom in education entrepreneurship. This is a game changer for Africa.

TORONTO MOVES: FOR SCHEDULES AND MORE, GO TO TTC.CA

A CUSTOMER-FIRST APPROACH STARTS AT THE TOP

TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

This spring, I implemented a reorganization of the TTC's management structure that, at its heart, puts the customer at the centre of everything we do. Four new business groups were created and built around a continuous improvement cycle designed to meet or exceed customer expectations.

The Strategy and Customer Experience Group's mandate is to start and end this cycle. It specifies the service level and quality to be delivered based on customer needs, then evaluates business results and customers' feedback so we can understand and rectify where we may have fallen short.

In order to excel, you need good people. So we need to continue to build highly capable management, supervisory and front-line teams. In looking afresh at our recruitment and people profiles, and the training needs of our staff, we will source, train, motivate and retain talented individuals with the right attitudes at all levels.

I am convinced that the way we manage staff influences the way they come across to customers, which in turn colours the perceptions of media and stakeholders. For this reason, I want the TTC management culture and style to be one that gets the best out of staff, challenging them to succeed while supporting and encouraging them in what can be a difficult environment.

Fortunately, we already have many fantastic managers and front-line staff at the TTC. With clear direction and the right structure in place, I am confident we can make you feel more valued as customers.

BLOOR-DANFORTH LINE CLOSED FROM KEELE TO KIPLING STATIONS FOR TTC TRACK WORK

This weekend, the TTC will be closing a portion of the Bloor-Danforth line from Kipling to Keele Stations for scheduled track construction. Frequent, accessible shuttle buses will operate from Kipling to Keele Stations. With Keele not an accessible station, a Wheel-Trans bus will be stationed at Dundas West Station to assist customers who require an accessible subway station. The state-of-good-repair work involves the full replacement of the cross-over and the associated stone, steel and ties, which have reached the end of their in-service life.

SUBWAY DELAYS — ALTERNATE ROUTING

When there's a delay on the TTC's subway system, Transit Control's first priority is safety, then service. Within seconds, we identify the problem area, implement safety measures and establish the best way to get customers moving again.

During isolated incidents like a Passenger Assistance Alarm, it is easy to identify the delay location and determine a service strategy. When activated, the PAA will send an alarm to the Operator's cab, who then calls Transit Control and holds the train at the next station until EMS arrives or the customer leaves, typically in 15 minutes or less. In the case of a "report of smoke at track level," for example, it's more difficult to identify the problem area. Therefore, all trains on the affected line will be held until we find a cause.

If a delay is expected to last longer than 15 minutes, Transit Control calls for shuttle buses, carefully pulled from other routes, to relieve the influx of passengers off-loading from trains. But with a capacity of up to 1,100 customers per train, and only 48 per bus, it is nearly impossible to accommodate everyone. That being said, there are alternatives.

If you look at a transit map in a subway train, you're seeing just a piece of our expansive network. Instead, pick up a free Ride Guide from any Collector Booth and explore the many alternatives.

Let's say an incident closes the Yonge Line from Bloor to Union and you're trying to get to the downtown core. From the Bloor-Danforth Line, you could take the 505 Dundas or 504 King streetcar from Dundas West or Broadview Stations. From the Yonge Line, take the 52 Lawrence West, 32 Eglinton West, or 512 St Clair Streetcar, among others, to the University-Spadina Line and travel south. 505 Dundas, 506 Carlton and 504 King streetcars provide easy travel from the University Line to the Yonge Line.

While a Ride Guide is handy when you're on the system, the TTC provides a variety of tools to help customers navigate delays externally as well. Before you head onto the TTC, check for service advisories on our website, Twitter @TTCnotices and Facebook www.Facebook.com/TTCnotices, or by email by registering for e-Services at www.ttc.ca.

DID YOU KNOW?

Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs) were installed within line of sight of Collector Booths at all 69 Subway/RT stations in 2011. The AEDs can be used in the event of cardiac emergency. Each unit is encased in appropriately labelled, glass-fronted white cabinets.

TEDX: PETRI DISH TO YOUR PLATE

In the last of our five-part series leading up the fourth TEDx (Technology, Entertainment and Design) conference in Toronto, Metro talks to biotechnologist Isha Datar on why your tacos could contain lab-grown meat in the future.

Growing, slaughtering and processing animals for food create lots of problems. There are animal welfare concerns, for example: animals housed and transported in what many consider inhumane conditions. Then there are sustainability issues — large animals consume a lot of resources. But biotechnologist Isha Datar thinks there's a solution: "animal-free" meat grown from cells in a lab. In 2010 Datar examined possibilities for growing meat in vitro that hadn't yet been explored; her investigation contributed to the development of Canada's first in vitro meat lab at the University of Alberta.

What motivated you to investigate the possibility of creating meat in vitro?

In vitro meat could address nearly all our meat-related issues — animal rights and sustainability being the major ones. But there are tons of (other) issues. Meat production involves having a lot of animals close together, in close contact with humans, too. This makes excellent conditions for viruses to evolve. Bird flu, swine flu — it is no coincidence that these are diseases from animals that we raise for food.

Sustainability-wise, it's about minimizing the use of water and land, and minimizing the output of greenhouse gases and other wastes.

What is unique about your approach?

My personal agenda is to make the world look at high tech foods fairly. We have so many preconceived notions of technology in food — that it is unsafe, or disgusting. But I think these are primarily driven by fear, not facts.

Golden Rice (which was genetically modified to produce more vitamin A and thus reduce blindness) was shut down mostly out of fear. The Enviropig, which was modified to excrete less phosphorus in its waste (thereby reducing algal growths that damage water systems) was also shut down. Why is the public shutting down these ideas without understanding them? I want to change that.

How long might it be before cultured meat is available to consumers?

This is hard to say because scaling up the technology to produce in vitro meat is complicated. Cultured meat is going to look something like ground beef in the beginning … more like a mushed up product than something structured like a steak.

There are discussions of bringing it to market as a filler for ground meat products. I don't know how much I agree with this marketing scheme. I think it would be great to introduce in-vitro meat as a high-end gastronomy experience. Put it in a fancy taco!

Have you received any criticism of your initiative?

The greatest criticism is that we could adopt vegetarian diets instead of resorting to a high-tech solution like in vitro meat. But for most of us, we want options. In-vitro meat is another option.

Who is your hero or heroine?

Bill Nye is my hero. He went from being an engineer at Boeing, to doing stand-up comedy, to doing the Bill Nye the Science Guy show, to patenting a ballet shoe. He highlights all the things you can do in science.

Are you vegetarian yourself?
Not at all!

NYPD. Alleged cannibal cop arrested in FBI sting

Federal authorities say a New York City police officer plotted to kidnap women, rape and torture them and then cook and eat their body parts.

Gilberto Valle was arrested Wednesday in the ghoulish case. He is expected to appear in federal court in Manhattan sometime Thursday.

According to a criminal complaint, the FBI intercepted emails from Valle to an unidentified co-conspirator "discussing plans to kidnap, rape, torture, kill, cook and eat body parts of a number of women."

No women were actually harmed.

The New York Police Department patrolman lives in Queens. He had been assigned to a Manhattan precinct before being suspended Wednesday.

The name of Valle's attorney was not immediately available. There was no immediate response to a message left with the NYPD.

Baltimore

Gunman thought NFLer Ray Lewis was out to get him

A man charged in a fatal shooting at a Georgia megachurch said in court documents 10 years ago that he shot a man at a Baltimore mosque because he believed an NFL player was out to get him.

In a psychological evaluation, Floyd Palmer said the 2001 mosque shooting occurred because he believed the victim and members of his own family were being paid by Baltimore Ravens linebacker Ray Lewis to "get rid of him."

Palmer said his cousin and another man were killed after the 2000 Super Bowl. Lewis was charged in those stabbing deaths but was exonerated.

Palmer was committed to a Maryland psychiatric hospital after being found not criminally responsible for the mosque shooting. A judge released him in 2006, despite objections from prosecutors.

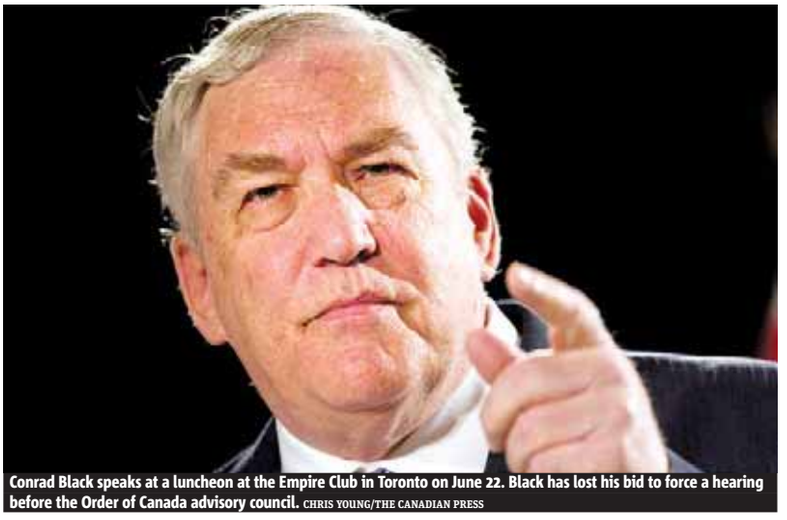
Conrad Black loses Order of Canada hearing bid

Ruling. Advisory council deciding whether or not former media baron can retain award of distinction



Conrad Black speaks at a luncheon at the Empire Club in Toronto on June 22. Black has lost his bid to force a hearing before the Order of Canada advisory council. CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Former media tycoon Conrad Black has lost his bid to force a hearing before the Order of Canada advisory council.

The council is deciding whether to recommend he be stripped of his 1990 honour after being convicted of fraud and obstruction of justice in the United States.

Black wanted to state his case in person, but the council refused. Federal Court on Thursday said it would not interfere.

In its ruling, the court said the council's refusal is not immune from judicial review, but that procedural fairness and natural justice do not require an oral hearing.

The court said Black can make his arguments for keeping the honour in writing.

Meanwhile, an American court has fined Black $6.1 million for violating securities laws.

The fine relates to Black's tenure at Hollinger International Inc. based in Chicago.

In his judgment earlier this month, Judge William Hart of the District Court for the Northern District of Illinois blasted Black as "intransigent."

Hart was especially unhappy with Black's denunciation of the courts and justice system in a book he has written.

Black, who spent three years in prison for fraud and obstruction of justice, has requested a stay of the judgment while he appeals related convictions.

Hurricane hits Bahamas, Cuba

Hurricane Sandy. The Category 2 hurricane is expected to reach the U.S. next week; the east coast could be blasted by super storm

Hurricane Sandy barrelled into the Bahamas on Thursday after slashing across eastern Cuba, where it ripped off roofs and forced postponement of a hearing at the Guantanamo naval base but caused no reported deaths.

The Category 2 hurricane killed four people elsewhere in the Caribbean, and forecasters warned it will likely cause a super storm in the U.S. next week, mixing with a winter storm whose effects will be felt along the entire East Coast from Florida to Maine and inland to Ohio.

The hurricane was located about 40 kilometres east of Great Exuma Island early Thursday afternoon and it was moving north with maximum sustained winds of 105 mph.

Sandy was blamed for the death of an elderly man in Jamaica who was killed when a boulder crashed into his clapboard house. A man and two women died while trying to cross storm-swollen rivers in southwestern Haiti. Officials reported flooding across Haiti. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandy's remains

The storm is projected to hit New Jersey with tropical storm-force winds on Tuesday.

- There's a 90 per cent chance that most of the U.S. East Coast will get steady gale-force winds, flooding, heavy rain and maybe snow starting Sunday and stretching past Wednesday.
- It might bring storm conditions to the southeast Florida coast, the Upper Keys and Florida Bay by Friday morning.

Uproar as Picasso vandal gets his own art show

A Houston art gallery has raised the ire of the local art community by staging a show of works by a 22-year-old who's been on the lam since being charged with spray-painting a Picasso painting.

Despite the uproar, Cueto James Art Gallery owner James Perez expects a full house for Friday's opening of 12 works by Uriel Landeros. He was charged with felony graffiti and felony criminal mischief for allegedly defacing Woman in a Red Armchair at Houston's Menil Collection on June 13.

New York City

Illegal sports betting arrests

Twenty five people in five U.S. states have been indicted in New York City on charges they operated an illegal sports betting business that took in $50 million in 18 months.

The defendants include the manager of a legal sports book at a Nevada casino and three owners of the popular Pinnacle Sports gambling website.

Arrests took place Wednesday in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Nevada and California.

Queens prosecutors say gamblers placed bets over the phone and at least four websites.

They say the conspirators tried to evade detection by processing the bets through offshore computer servers and using couriers to transport profits to and from Panama and Costa Rica.

Drug war casualties? Six bullet-ridden bodies dumped near Mexico City

Police found the naked, bullet-ridden bodies of five men and one woman Friday dumped on a street on the outskirts of Mexico City.

The prosecutor's office in Mexico State, which adjoins Mexico City, said the victims were between the ages of 20 and 25.

The possible motives in the slayings were still under investigation.

Mexico City has largely been spared the drug-fueled violence that has resulted in massacres in other parts of the country, and none of the hand-lettered signs that accompany drug-gang slayings were found at the scene. On Thursday, Mexican authorities fired a judge accused of improperly dismissing charges or releasing suspects in drug cartel cases.

The Federal Judiciary Council said it fired district Judge Efrain Cazares for "serious offences in his judicial duties." He had been suspended in June. Cazares was accused of ignoring credible evidence when he released mayors detained in drug arrests. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UN. Call for boycott of firms having dealings with Israeli settlements in West Bank

The UN special investigator on human rights in the Palestinian territories called Wednesday for a boycott of all companies that have dealings with Israeli settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem until they adhere to international rights standards and practices.

Israel and the U.S. quickly rejected Richard Falk's report, accusing the UN special rapporteur of bias against Israel and calling for his removal.

In a report presented to the UN General Assembly, Falk said a number of companies from the U.S., Europe and Mexico are exploiting Palestinian resources.

U.S. President Barack Obama speaks at a campaign rally, Wednesday, in Las Vegas. Republican Mitt Romney is inching closer to the incumbent as polls show a fall in Obama's support among women. JULIE JACOBSON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obama losing ground among female voters

Presidential race. New poll shows more women trust Romney with helping turn the economy around

A hoarse U.S. President Barack Obama swung into a second day of a campaigning blitz in a narrowing race while a new Associated Press-GfK poll shows he has ceded his 16-point advantage among women, a surprising drop among a key group that is crucial to his winning a second term.

The poll also shows Republican challenger Mitt Romney is favoured by 47 per cent of likely voters to 45 per cent for the president less than two weeks before Election Day.

Katy Perry shows support for Obama at a campaign rally in Las Vegas. JULIE JACOBSON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obama's dip in support among women appeared to reflect a recent drive by Romney to show himself as a more moderate candidate after months of campaigning as a hard-right conservative.

Having gained ground with women, however, Romney's campaign now must deal with the fallout from a comment by a Romney-endorsed Senate candidate in Indiana, who said that when a woman becomes pregnant during a rape, "that's something God intended."

His campaign has said Romney disagreed with what Richard Mourdock said but stood by his endorsement of the Senate candidate. Romney opposes abortion but, unlike Mourdock, supports exceptions in cases of rape or incest.

300 potential abuse victims of Savile identified: Police

Disgraced BBC entertainer Jimmy Savile was investigated in the 1980s over an allegation of indecent assault, police said Thursday as they announced that 300 potential victims had come forward so far with abuse accusations against the late TV host.

Officers have interviewed 130 of the 300 potential victims so far and even more are expected to contact authorities, Commander Peter Spindler, leader of the Scotland Yard inquiry, said Thursday.

The well-known children's television and radio presenter is accused of using his fame to coerce vulnerable teens into having sex with him in his car, in his camper van, and even in dressing rooms on BBC premises.

Savile died last October at age 84,

The Savile scandal has rocked the BBC and prompted disbelief that the presenter's crimes could have gone unnoticed or unreported.

Wounded activist girl will return home: Father

The father of a 15-year-old Pakistani activist girl who was shot and wounded by a Taliban gunman vowed Thursday that she would return home after finishing medical treatment abroad, despite new insurgent threats against her.

Since she was shot on Oct. 9 in northwestern Pakistan, Malala has become a hero at home and internationally, although her work speaking out against the Taliban and advocating girls' education has long been respected and known beyond her native Swat Valley.

Her father, Ziauddin Yousufzai, is expected to fly soon to Britain to see his daughter. These were his first public comments since the shooting.

At the age of 11, Malala began writing a blog under a pseudonym for the BBC about life under the Taliban in Swat. After the military ousted the militants in 2009, she began publicly speaking out about the need for girls' education. She appeared frequently in the media and was given one of the country's highest civilian honours for her bravery.

A Taliban gunman shot her in the neck and head as she was in a school bus on her way home from school in the Swat Valley city of Mingora. Two other girls were injured.

She was airlifted to a hospital in Britain on Oct. 15. The Taliban have vowed to kill her, raising questions about whether it would be safe for her to return, but her father dispelled reports the family might seek asylum abroad.

"I first laughed at it because all of our sacrifices, my personal (sacrifices), or this attack on my daughter, cannot have such a cheap purpose that we would go to some other country and live the rest of our life there," he said, speaking in Urdu. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iran leader blames Israel, U.S. for Syrian civil war

Iran's Supreme Leader is blaming the U.S. and Israel for the bloody, 19-month civil war in Syria.

Ayatollah Ali Khamenei also warns Western powers not to intervene in the conflict.

In his message to Muslims performing the annual hajj pilgrimage to Mecca, he charges that the civil war, which he characterized as "young Muslims killing each other," is a "crime initiated by the United States and the Zionist regime, Israel," punishing Syria for resisting Israeli occupation and supporting anti-Israel Palestinian and Lebanese groups. Strained partnership.
Two U.S. troops killed in apparent insider attack in Afghanistan

A man in an Afghan police uniform shot and killed two American service members Thursday, in what appeared to be the latest in a rash of attacks on international forces this year by their Afghan partners.

The so-called insider attacks have stretched to the breaking point a partnership that U.S. and NATO officials consider a key part their exit plan — preparing the Afghans to take over responsibility for their country's security in just over two years' time.

They have also cast major doubts over the program, where Afghans and international troops are supposed to work "shoulder-to-shoulder" to defend the country.

It was the second suspected insider attack in two days. On Wednesday, two British service members and an Afghan police officer were killed in an "exchange of gunfire" in Helmand province, the British Ministry of Defence said in a statement.

The Afghan officer was not wearing his uniform at the time and the statement said it was not clear who started shooting first in the incident.

Correctional Service an 'abuser,' lawyer tells court

Ashley Smith inquest. Judge rejected the government's request to stop the probe into teenager's death in jail

With one court challenge out of the way, the inquest into the prison death of teenager Ashley Smith is now expected to carry on next week.

The government's failed attempt at stopping the inquest proceedings has angered Smith's family.

Their lawyer says Correctional Service Canada is out of control.

Prison officials don't want the public to see disturbing surveillance video of Smith's treatment before her choking death five years ago.

However, a Divisional Court judge rejected their bid for an emergency stay.

The inquest is expected to resume on Oct. 31.

The decision to continue with the inquest came amid assertions prison authorities were simply trying to cover up the horrific treatment meted out to Smith that was captured on video.

In a ruling that took about an hour to decide, Divisional Court Justice Joan Lax dismissed the stay motion.

Correctional Service Canada asked for the emergency halt to the much-delayed inquest to give it time to get the courts to review a ruling by the presiding coroner that the videos should be public.

The videos at issue show, among other things, guards duct-taping Smith to an airplane seat and forcibly injecting her with "chemical restraints" against her will. Family lawyer Julian Falconer accused the government of trying to put a lid on abuse videos.

Omnibus budget bill. Tories move to limit debate on legislation

Just one week after introducing it, the Conservative government is moving to fast-track its controversial omnibus budget bill.

The House of Commons passed a motion Thursday to impose time allocation on Bill C-45, essentially limiting how long it can be debated by members of parliament.

"They've introduced a law and then right away they introduce time allocation," interim Liberal leader Bob Rae said after the motion passed. "I think it's pretty strange and pretty bizarre.

"I don't find it a normal way to conduct public business to introduce a time allocation bill almost simultaneously with the introduction of the law."

The Conservatives have agreed to let nine committees examine the first bill.

Controversy

It's the second omnibus bill the Conservatives have introduced to implement last March's budget.

- The first bill triggered an opposition filibuster that brought parliament to a near standstill.

Top court to review prostitution laws

The Supreme Court of Canada is willing to take a look at the country's main laws controlling prostitution.

The court said Thursday it will hear a government appeal of a ruling striking down the ban on brothels.

Ontario's top court had ruled the ban on bawdy houses increased the dangers prostitutes face because it forces them to work outside. The Ontario court also upheld a ban on soliciting and reworded the law against living on the avails of prostitution.

Van crashes into classroom, 3 critically hurt

Three students were critically injured when a minivan crashed through a wall and into their classroom, RCMP said.

The Racette Junior High School students were airlifted from St. Paul, Alta., to an Edmonton hospital 200 kilometres to the east with critical injuries. Five others were transported by ambulance to the local hospital but were released later in the day.

Parent Michelle de Moissac said a teacher told her the van had been moving erratically. It nearly hit a pedestrian before it veered off the road, smashed through a chain-link fence and went through the building, she said.

RCMP said the van's driver, a 46-year-old man from St. Paul, received minor injuries and was taken into custody.

Spokeswoman Doris Stapleton said investigators are trying to determine the cause of the crash, which could include drugs or alcohol, mechanical failure, slippery conditions and the driver's medical health.

Medal. Britain honours bomb-sniffing army dog

A bomb-sniffing army dog who died in Afghanistan on the day his handler was killed has been honoured with Britain's highest award for animal bravery.

Springer spaniel mix Theo was posthumously awarded the Dickin Medal on Thursday at a ceremony in London.

Theo worked for five months in Afghanistan with Royal Army Veterinary Corps Lance-Cpl. Liam Tasker, searching out roadside bombs. Tasker was killed in a firefight with insurgents in Helmand Province in March 2011. Theo suffered a fatal seizure hours later at a British army base, likely brought about by stress.

The officer was writing a report in his car in Prince George, B.C., on Thursday when a bull moose, crossing an intersection with his mate, rammed the front of the police cruiser before climbing over the hood and onto the roof. London. Two Olympians appeal for help recovering bronze medals

Two British Olympians appealed Thursday for help in recovering a pair of bronze medals that were snatched from a London nightclub, while police reported an arrest in the case.

Rower Alex Partridge and field-hockey star Hannah Macleod earned the medals at the 2012 London Olympics.

The thefts reportedly occurred at the Mahiki nightclub, where the athletes went following a reception at Buckingham Palace hosted by Queen Elizabeth II in honour of Britain's Olympic team.

"Winning it in August was an incredible highlight for me, and for this to have happened is simply shattering," Macleod said in a statement.

Macleod was a member of the women's team that defeated New Zealand, 3-1.

Partridge, a member of the men's eight rowing team, said his team blazer was also taken.

Police said a 29-year-old man had been arrested and was being questioned.

Human-rights group probes its own ties to sweatshop goods

Fundraising irony. Museum reviews allegations against garment maker and reports of worker intimidation

Officials with the Canadian Museum for Human Rights are looking into whether some of their fundraising T-shirts are connected to sweatshops in developing countries.

The government-funded museum has been selling T-shirts made in Honduras, El Salvador and other countries in an attempt to raise money before the facility's 2014 opening date.

A report by Global News this week showed that some of the T-shirts were made by Gildan, a Montreal-based clothing manufacturer with factories in Central America, the Carribean and Asia.

Gildan has been criticized by the Workers Rights Consortium, an independent group that alleges Gildan has resorted to threats, intimidation and firings to prevent workers from unionizing.

A Gildan spokesperson told Global News the company respects workers rights and has taken steps to address the consortium's concerns.

Angela Cassie, a spokesperson for the human-rights museum, said a review of the matter is underway.

"We are speaking with many of our suppliers, and ... with this particular merchandise, if we find that it does not respect or comply with our standards, then we'll take action as appropriate," Cassie said Thursday.

Cassie pointed out that Gildan has been certified by the Fair Labour Association, a U.S.-based group that seeks to have companies voluntarily comply with labour standards. Part of the museum's review will be to determine whether that certification is meaningful.

Cassie defended the museum's overall use of suppliers in developing countries. Some suppliers are small shops that help social causes, such as a women's collective in El Salvador.

Up in the sky! It's a bird! It's a plane! Nope, sorry, it's actually a shark

Golf-club employees in Southern California came to the rescue when a shark dropped out of the sky and dropped onto the 12th tee.

San Juan Hills Golf Club operations director Melissa McCormack says a course marshal found the leopard shark Monday afternoon and brought it to the clubhouse.

It had puncture wounds where it appeared a bird had snagged it from the Pacific Ocean, about eight kilometres away.

They stuck the approximately one-kilogram shark into fresh water before somebody remembered it came from the sea, so they got some sea salt from the kitchen and mixed it in.

Another employee rushed the shark to the ocean where McCormack says it was very still for a few seconds before twisting around and speeding off.

Microsoft's reset button

Launching new tablet and Windows 8. Touch-enabled interface a standout feature of the company's newest operating system

John Eversole, a marketing manager for Microsoft, uses Windows 8 during an event unveiling the operating system Thursday. Inset: A Microsoft engineer proudly displays his temporary tattoos with the company's logo at the event where the launch of the company's new Surface tablet was also heralded. ELAINE THOMPSON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For a company that has launched products with Ringo Starr, Paul McCartney and Jay Leno — and has even paid to light up the Empire State Building in its signature colours — Microsoft's unveiling of Windows 8 on Thursday was a subdued affair.

Windows 8 is Microsoft's radical reimagining of its ubiquitous operating system. What makes it vastly different from past Windows releases is that it's designed from the ground up to work on touch-enabled PCs and tablet computers. Microsoft is also making its own tablet computer, the Surface, marking the first time that it will manufacture a general-purpose computer. Both the Surface and Windows 8 will go on sale Friday.

For the event, Microsoft dressed up a cavernous former bus depot on a floating pier jutting from Manhattan into the Hudson River. Improvised siding shielded the roughly 500 reporters and other guests from the sight of a ruined pier to the south.

This time, with no rock stars in attendance, Microsoft executives took the stage to introduce an array of Windows 8 desktops, laptops and tablet computers made by AsusTek Computer Inc., Dell Inc., Samsung Electronics Co. and others.

Instead of raising expectations, Microsoft Corp. did what it could to reset them. In recent days, some reviewers have panned Microsoft's Surface tablet. Others have criticized the dearth of apps in the Windows Store, the new online store where customers can buy apps that will work on the current model of the Surface and other devices that use the streamlined version of the new operating system, called Windows RT.

"The Windows Store has more apps than any competing app store had at its opening," said Steven Sinofsky, president of Windows and Windows Live, in a thinly veiled reference to Apple Inc.'s iPad.

Lawsuit. Drugs OK past expiry date, group alleges

Aspirin, made by Bayer. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

"If stored properly, these medications can and do remain chemical stable, safe and effective long after those dates," each of the lawsuits alleges.

Ring, ring. Telecom watchdog says errors on cell bills are common

A telecom watchdog group says routine errors on cellphone bills continue to be a major headache for consumers, who often complained they were charged too much. A report by the Commissioner for Complaints for Telecommunications Services finds consumers also say they weren't given discounts or credits promised or their contracts didn't reflect the services they thought they were getting.

The non-profit group helps settle disputes between consumers and telecom service providers. It handled almost 11,000 complaints for 2011 to 2012 — a 35 per cent increase from the previous year. The complaints included wireless, local and long-distance and Internet services.

Big publishing houses just talking?

British publishing and education company Pearson PLC says it is in talks with German media group Bertelsmann SE over merging the firms' Penguin and Random House publishing operations.

Pearson said Thursday it "is discussing with Bertelsmann a possible combination of Penguin and Random House" but added that there is no certainty the talks will lead to a transaction.

Pearson is publisher of the Financial Times and Penguin Group books. Bertelsmann's assets include the RTL Group television division and magazine publisher Gruner + Jahr. The talks come at a time when the publishing industry is being buffeted by the growing e-book market.

Postmedia posts $28.4M loss

Postmedia Network Canada Corp. had a $28.4-million loss in the fourth quarter of its 2012 financial year as the newspaper and Internet publisher's revenue fell nearly six per cent from a year earlier.

The Toronto-based company, which owns the National Post, Ottawa Citizen, Montreal Gazette and other dailies across the country, said a number of factors contributed to the increased loss.

BMO predicts modest price increases in 2013

Canadian consumers won't need to dig much deeper when faced with the kaching of the cash register in 2013, according to a new Bank of Montreal survey that predicts only a modest 1.3 per cent increase in prices next year. In fact, the bank said its survey of large and small businesses in late August and early September found that six in 10 planned no price increases at all in 2013.

Is that wheat-straw-waste paper you're holding, Ms. Vergara? Actor Woody Harrelson is the front man for a plan to convert agricultural crop waste into paper in Canada. KEVIN WINTER/GETTY IMAGES/FILE

Woody talks wood: Actor backs Prairie eco-paper company

Green guy. Known for his strict vegan diet and support for anything hemp, Harrelson said he wants to save trees

Actor Woody Harrelson has played every character from a gullible bartender to an irascible porn publisher to the drunken hero in The Hunger Games, but in real life he wants to be a paper industry revolutionary who saves forests from chainsaws.

Harrelson, on the phone from Atlanta, Ga., where he's filming the sequel to The Hunger Games and reprising his role as the heavy drinking Haymitch Abernathy, says his support of Manitoba-based Prairie Pulp and Paper Inc., is not an act.

Prairie Pulp and Paper Inc. produces paper made from waste wheat straw and Harrelson said he wants to get in on the movement that will see North America's first non-wood pulp-and-paper mill set up in Manitoba.

"When we build a plant there in Manitoba, it's going to be 100-per-cent wood free ... really from agricultural waste," said Harrelson, a two-time Academy Award nominee. "I'd like to see a revolution in the paper industry and I think this is an important part of that process."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Where to get it

Step Forward paper is currently made in India with 80 per cent waste wheat straw and 20 per cent wood fibres. It is available in 330 Staples stores in Canada.

- It was found to have the lowest environmental impacts with regards to greenhouse gas emissions, wastewater volume and aquatic acidification.

FLURRIES OF FUN

ON B.C. SKI HILLS FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

There's nothing like the exhilarating feeling of fresh powder beneath your skis going down the first run of the season. Luckily, at B.C.'s vast variety of ski resorts, the powder isn't just for experienced skiers and adventure seekers — families can have fun, too.

Ski vacations in B.C. are easier and more flexible than ever, particularly for families, says David Lynn, president of the Canada West Ski Areas Association.

"Most resorts have really good ski school lessons for all levels of ability, and camp programs for kids," he says. "Some resorts offer family lessons so everyone can learn together, while others let parents navigate the slopes on their own while the kids are engaged at camp."

B.C. resorts draw skiers from around the world to enjoy the province's undeniable resource: Amazing snow. Over the past two years the average snowfall for Mount Washington, for instance, was a whopping 14 metres. That's a whole lot of white stuff to play in.

"The quality and consistency of B.C. snow are world-class," Lynn says. The differing weather patterns around the province make for a variety of skiing experiences, he says. The Coast Mountains, like Whistler Blackcomb and Mount Washington, get a larger volume of snow than the Thompson Okanagan and Kootenay Rockies region.

"You get a great snow base with West Coast snow," Lynn explains. "It lets you ski steep terrain."

Meanwhile, at ski destinations in the Kootenay Rockies (Kicking Horse, Revelstoke, Panorama, Kimberley, Whitewater) and the Thompson Okanagan (Big White, Silver Star, Apex, Sun Peaks), visitors can enjoy the light, fluffy "champagne powder" snow for which the region is famous.

Each resort has its own personality and set of family-friendly perks, including tube parks, skating rinks, snowshoeing, swimming pools and hot tubs, daycare centres, kitchen-equipped suites, and many more specialized programs, places and events suited just for children, from toddlers to teenagers. Many also offer special deals for families, too, such as mid-week skiing packages.

"Whether the resort is big like Whistler Blackcomb or smaller like Whitewater or Apex, B.C.'s ski destinations have really done a great job making sure there's something for everyone, on and off the slopes," Lynn says.

BEAUTIFUL BRITISH COLUMBIA AT ITS BEST

Skiing the heights of the Rocky Mountains is experiencing the Canadian landscape at its best, according to Matt Mosteller, vice-president of Resorts of the Canadian Rockies.

"It's stunning up there. It's an experience that takes people out of their everyday lives," he says.

The region's ski resorts offer spectacular experiences for families, and a family trip to the ski resort makes the perfect Christmas gift, Mosteller says.

Kids activities across the resorts include Minute Maid Learning Centres that are free from cross traffic, and special animated Minute Maid Adventure Kids trails. All kids 12 and younger in daily Snow School get free use of a helmet.

KICKING HORSE

This resort, nestled between the Purcell and Rocky Mountain ranges near Golden, B.C., welcomes families with beginner experiences including lessons, a tube park and a kids snow play area. Family-friendly events like the annual Winter Kick-off Festival and Ski With Santa ring in a fun winter season.

KIMBERLEY

With more than 80 runs, many winding through beautiful open glades, Kimberley gets more sunny days than any other B.C. resort, and offers excitement for all ages and ability levels. The New Year's night skiing event gets kids glowing with safe glow candles. Weekend kids' clubs help absolute beginners get comfortable, and give experienced skiers and snowboarders a chance to refine their skills.

FERNIE

With up to 11 metres (37 feet) of snowfall each year, this resort's small-town feel is a special draw for many visitors. Beyond the slopes, horse-drawn sleigh rides and a wide variety of cultural activities are available nearby in downtown Fernie.

GROOMING FAMILY-FRIENDLY ACTIVITIES

If Whistler Blackcomb's more than 11 average annual metres of snow, 200 marked runs and 16 alpine bowls weren't enough, the 2010 Olympic Games held there confirmed that this modern mountain resort is a world-class ski and snowboarding destination.

This season, Whistler Blackcomb has turned special attention to developing its great family programing, according to Stuart Rempel, senior vice-president of sales and marketing for the resort.

Parents can find family-friendly locations to eat, shop and ski by looking for the new Family Certified icon, a yellow star, on display.

"The Family Certified badge helps families enjoy their vacations," Rempel explains. "They can relax knowing that their choices in everything from runs to restaurants are safe and kid friendly."

This year, the resort is also presenting newly upgraded family-friendly runs and activities. The Whistler Kids Training Centre on Whistler Mountain now features a larger skills zone, an improved race-training zone and additional flags and signage. The Enchanted Forest run on Whistler Mountain is also wider this season.

Specially designed terrain gardens help kids practise their freestyle safely, while new and improved play structures, including Magic Castle on Blackcomb and the Tree Fort on Whistler, up the fun quotient.

Whistler Village is chockablock with family-friendly activities, and several ski and snowboard shops specialize in children's clothing.

The resort is now offering deals just for families that book before Nov. 15. Children 12 and younger can stay, ski, rent and receive airport transfers for free.

EXPERIENCE A DEEP POWDER ADVENTURE FOR ALL

At Whitewater Ski Resort, located along the famous "Powder Highway" in the B.C. interior, the powder is deep and the runs are legendary. There's no better place to bring the family for a winter adventure.

Whitewater caters to all skiing and snowboarding skill levels with a range of runs to choose from, from beginner to expert. The resort offers extensive lessons for all ages.

Kids aged four to five start as Little Muckers, supervised with only five to a class, learning the basics of skiing and benefiting from small groups and instructors who are specifically trained to work with that age group. Whitewater instructors use teaching techniques created by the Canadian Ski Instructors Alliance (CSIA), which help kids learn skills safely at their own pace.

The Jokers, kids aged six to nine, focus on one new skiing or snowboarding skill every week, and make new friends along the way.

The Blasters, kids aged 10 to 14, build on the five core principles of skiing or snowboarding every week while exposing students to technical skiing methods, so they can decide what type of skiing they would like to focus on.

New for 2013, Whitewater is offering the national RBC Bumps and Jumps program, which teaches kids how to ski freestyle, including moguls and terrain park skiing.

When it's time to hit the lodge, Whitewater serves world-class West Coast fare made with fresh, house-made ingredients — no overpriced, greasy burgers here.

Many Canadian cities are participating as well. Visit thrilltheworld.com for info.

2 Tim Hortons flashers. The morning line for your double-double might be moving a little quicker as the touchless debit payment system Interac Flash is rolling out at 2,300 Tim Hortons locations across Canada by the end of this month, allowing you to put your card in front of a scanner to pay directly from your bank account. Because typing your pin number just takes too long.

3 @CanadianProbz. Canada is the best country anywhere, but we do have problems here. And the Twitter account @CanadianProbz with 125,000 followers points to some of them. 4 Koodonation.com. Starting Nov. 5, you can team up with your fave Canadian university or college on Koodonation.com — an online micro-volunteering community — and strive to do the most good deeds online, with the reward being a $35,000 contribution to the winning school's Canadian charity of choice. Pretty cool grassroots initiative that teaches community engagement.

5 Trademarking Tebowing. The NY Jets QB is trademarking Tebowing, the move where he goes down on one knee and holds a clenched fist against his forehead while praying during games. Tebow says he's doing it to "make sure it's used in the right way." I am considering trademarking "the Neil", a signature move where I kneel down and pray at awkward moments for no reason.

6 Lance Armstrong. The governing body of cycling stripped him of his seven Tour de France titles after a widespread doping scandal was revealed by the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency, banning him for life from the sport. This tarnishes Armstrong's image, true, but doesn't change the fact he beat cancer and created the charity Livestrong, which has raised so many millions for cancer research.

7 Take them a meal. A good friend of mine was recently diagnosed with breast cancer, and a link for TakeThemAMeal.com service was sent around. It's a popular online tool — over four million people have used it — to co-ordinate the delivery of meals to someone who is in need, giving friends, family, neighbours and co-workers an easy way to help out. Oh, and it's free. Spread the word.

8 iPad Mini. Apple introduced its pencil-thin iPad Mini this week, priced at $329, adding another high-quality device to an already-crowded seven-inch tablet market. For other tablet developers, that does leave more room in the six-inch market — or if you really want to go big, eight inches. No insecurities there, right?

9 John Farrell. The Jays traded their manager to the Boston Red Sox for a player, infielder Mike Aviles. Good riddance Farrell, who basically did nothing for the Jays in two years and used the team as an internship of sorts. Now can we trade in general manager Alex Anthopoulos for Pat Gillick, the GM who guided the Jays to back-to-back World Series titles in 1992 and 1993?

10 Stephen Harper photo-bomb. In a rare moment of spontaneity, the prime minister stepped out of his car with security detail and posed with a wedding party as they were taking photos at scenic Rockcliffe Parkway in Ottawa earlier this week. Or was it spontaneous? Here's what his advisers might have said: "Steve, great photo op man. Crash their wedding photos! This thing will go viral dude, LOL."

Alberta discovery

Feathers possibly used for courtship

A set of 70-million-year-old fossils found in Alberta has added weight to theories that dinosaurs may have first sprouted feathers to show off, not take off.

Darla Zelenitsky, a paleontologist at the University of Calgary, says three years of study on dinosaur fossils found near Drumheller, Alta., suggest that the features most closely linked with flight evolved for a completely different reason.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fossil find leads to theory

"These wing-like structures would have been used for reproductive activities (courtship, display, brooding) and were only later ... co-opted for other roles including flight."

A paper published Thursday in the prestigious journal Science says.

Dinosaur dig

- The fossils — the oldest feathered dinosaurs ever found — are from three members of the species Ornithomimus edmontonicus (pictured above in an artistic reconstruction), an agile, two-legged dinosaur that looked like a large ostrich and most likely lived off a mixed diet of leaves, eggs and small animals.
- At about 150 kilograms, the dinosaur was too big to fly. The fossils also suggest real feathers didn't grow until adulthood.

Flexing their feathers

"Because they're in these large dinosaurs, (wings) haven't evolved for flight.... (And) because these wing-like structures develop later in life, that suggests they were used for purposes like display or courtship or egg-brooding."

Just for laughs Live

You may find yourself playing a Where's Waldo game in Cloud Atlas as the actors don plenty of guises. HANDOUT

Reel guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

The year's 'most' movie

Cloud Atlas.
Sprawling epic from the Wachowskis is threaded together by a somewhat trite sentiment

Richard: Mark, the movie's structure seems random at first, but as the running time ticks on connections begin to assert themselves and through lines emerge. Each story has a distinct look and feel, but share a common cast. Each actor plays many characters — so to stop your mind from wandering, you may find yourself playing a Where's Waldo game, trying to identify the actors in their various guises. Did you find it confusing?

Mark: All part of the game, Richard, all part of the game. And the Wachowskis are nothing if not game players. There are some people who will think this is the best movie of the year. I don't know about that, but it is the most movie of the year — eight movies by my count. Usually after I see a film I want to go for coffee — after Cloud Atlas I felt I needed a vacation. But you can't fault its ambition. What you can question is its spiritual balderdash of "we are all connected." If so, why won't Spielberg return my calls?

RC: I hear you, it is a whole lotta movie. I also get what you mean about the idea that we are all connected. While spiritually satisfying, it is the most simplistic of the movie's concepts. We get it in the first hour, it's reinforced in the second and by the end of the third act you want to scream, "I know! I know! We're all connected!" What did you think about each actor taking on six roles?

MB: Part of the fun, and an Oscar shoo-in for whoever did the makeup. There is another theme to the movie that I found less trite, which is humanity's pursuit of freedom and free will over the ages. Some of the stories make this point better than others. I was most engrossed in the Seoul 2144 plot and least impressed with the nursing home geezers, although Jim Broadbent was terrific, as always. But I found it kind of depressing to find that in the far, far future, we all talk like Ozark hillbillies.

RC: I liked the nursing home story! But then again, Benny Hill always made me laugh. The action scenes, however, let me down. Surprisingly for directors who redefined movie action in their Matrix trilogy, the anticipated Wachowskis touch is missing in the bigger set pieces.

MB: I think if the action scenes were any bigger, they might have overwhelmed the rest of the movie. But even if the film had one plot too many and one idea too few, it still made me feel the grandeur of what cinema can be.

Synopsis

Words like audacious and ambitious will be used to describe the sprawling three-hour saga from co-directors Lana and Andy Wachowski and Tom Tykwer. Based on a novel by British author David Mitchell, the story careens through history like a time machine with a broken steering wheel. It's a non-linear epic that connects six characters — make that souls — throughout different times in history.

Drama

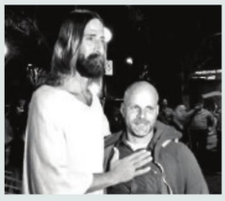
Chasing Mavericks

Director. Curtis Hanson, Michael Apted

Stars. Gerard Butler, Jonny Weston

As frustratingly formulaic as it is, Chasing Mavericks has a strange allure. Whether it's the skillful performances, expert cinematography or the hippie magnetism of surfer logic, this true story about a teen (Jonny Weston) who attempts to conquer the world's largest waves under the guidance of a seasoned surfer (Gerard Butler) is much more cohesive than expected, especially considering Michael Apted assumed directing duties for Curtis Hanson midway through due to health concerns. STEVE GOW

Documentary



Hellbound?

Director. Kevin Miller

The question of where we go when we die — if we've been bad — is parsed in Kevin Miller's intriguing but ultimately frustrating Hellbound? By interviewing a wide range of theologians reaping disparate positions, Miller creates an impression of balance, but the film proceeds from a basic assumption of belief on behalf of the viewer — a position that may limit its appeal. It also doesn't help that Miller uses 9/11 and Ground Zero as a shortcut to the emotions this otherwise talky and at times downright abstract documentary can't quite access.

ADAM NAYMAN

Horror

Silent Hill: Revelation 3D

Director. Michael J. Bassett

Stars. Adelaide Clemens, Kit Harrington, Malcolm McDowell

What it lacked in coherent plot, Silent Hill made up for with striking and frightening imagery. But the same can't be said for this video game adaptation's second trip to theatres. Sharon, now a teenager, has no memory of Silent Hill, but is drawn back after the cult that tried to burn her maternal mother kidnap her adopted father. Lacking the narrative focus and visual flare of the original's creative team, Revelation attempts to clarify the world of Silent Hill, but only muddies the water further. IAN GORMELY

Drama

Smashed

Director. James Ponsoldt

Stars. Mary Elizabeth Winstead, Aaron Paul, Octavia Spencer

Smashed is a clear-headed look at drunkenness. Mary Elizabeth Winstead and Aaron Paul play a couple on a slow climb to the bottom, watching their lives stagger by through the bottom of a pint glass. It's given a brutally honest (though often funny) depiction of people who don't realize they have a problem until it is too late. By then their world is crumbling, and it is heartbreaking to watch two people in love separated by the pull of a vodka bottle. It's a well acted, compelling and sobering portrait of a person in crisis.

RICHARD CROUSE

Horror

In Their Skin

Director. Jeremy Power Regimbal

Stars. Selma Blair, Joshua Close and James D'Arcy

The wealthy Hughes visit their weekend home and are forced to host over-friendly, inappropriate neighbours who turn hostile and violent as the hours tick by. An awkward dinner turns into a blood bath, unfolding in a single claustrophobic location with no safe corners or connection to the outside world. Deliverance, Straw Dogs and In Their Skin are examples of a genre I'll call socio-economic horror. It's an old story in which the have-nots want what they imagine the haves have.

IAN GORMELY

Comedy

Unlucky

Director. Ian A. Robertson

Stars. Jim Annan, Pat Mastroianni

Darren Mackintosh (Jim Annan) is an unlucky guy. His parents died leaving him a $50,000 debt to a mobster (Pat Mastroianni), his psychiatrist stole his savings and, to top it off, he keeps mysteriously waking up naked in a park. In a series of increasingly bizarre events, Mackintosh attempts to pay the debt, while keeping his job, avoiding arrest and getting the girl. For a movie this weird to work it has to be really funny or really clever — and Unlucky is neither. The jokes fall flat and the explanation for Darren's misfortune will leave viewers unsatisfied. REGAN REID

Comedy/Drama

The Sessions

Director. Ben Lewin

Stars. John Hawkes, Helen Hunt

The Sessions should be anything but the jovial, feel-good flick that it is. Based on the real life of Mark O'Brien (played brilliantly by John Hawkes) a quadriplegic poet and writer who hired a surrogate to explore his sexuality, moviegoers may expect murky melodrama. Instead, writer/director Ben Lewin refuses to patronize, gracing the film with a light, matter-of-fact quality. The result is an intelligent, nuanced comedy that reassures audiences of their own relationship to sexuality.

STEVE GOW

Comedy

Fun Size

Director. Josh Schwartz

Stars. Victoria Justice, Chelsea Handler

Characterized as a "cross between Superbad and Adventures in Babysitting," Fun Size can't capture the magic of either of those comic hits. Teen sensation Victoria Justice just wants to attend a hunk's Halloween party. Delegated to babysit instead, she loses her bratty baby brother and the night turns into a goofy search involving arson, blackmail, a humping chicken gag and other contrived hijinks. While Fun Size has idiosyncratic potential, it winds up as forgettable as a year-old rotting jack-o'-lantern.

STEVE GOW

Horror

V/H/S

Director. Adam Wingard, Ti West, more

Stars. Calvin Reeder, Hannah Fierman

Omnibus films — movies made up of segments from different directors — rarely work. Ditto for found-footage horror flicks. So combining the two styles into one, as V/H/S does, seems like a doomed effort from the outset. The collection is framed around a group of ne'er-do-wells breaking into a home to recover a VHS tape for some extra cash, only to discover the gruesome footage it contains. To their credit the scene's limited run-time ensures a clever conceit isn't stretched too thin.

IAN GORMELY

The horror, the horror

Unwinding after a day of shooting a nerve-shredding horror movie like Silent Hill Revelation 3D can be tough, but co-stars Adelaide Clemens and Kit Harington have their strategies all figured out. (Hint: They involve jogging and alcohol.) See the video online at metronews.ca.

Sarah Silverman. Star can get obsessive when it comes to video games

Wreck-It Ralph opens next Friday. HANDOUT

In Wreck-It Ralph, Sarah Silverman voices a sprightly, sweetly obnoxious glitch of a driver in Sugar Rush, a Candyland-themed racing game. But when it comes to her own gaming preferences, Silverman admits she goes in for stuff a bit more violent — like the classic James Bond multiplayer shooting game Goldeneye. But that doesn't mean she'd want to live in it.

How much of a video game fan are you?
I grew up near an arcade called Space Center that my sisters and I would go to all the time, and the Dairy Queen where I worked had a game called Joust that I was obsessed with, that I would master between dipped cones. And then I got really into Nintendo 64. Actually, when I was working on Mr. Show, they got Nintendo 64 Goldeneye, and any time any of us weren't shooting, we were playing that obsessively. I would dream about it. I think I know every square inch of every room on every map in that game.

I have friends who still play that game.
Me too! I actually found it and have it. Four friends playing, killing each other, you've got the little compass-style so you can see where everyone is. It's so fun to talk smack and kill each other. I heard there's another 007 game coming out. I'm excited.

NED EHRBAR, MWN

Runaway

If Sarah Silverman could run away to a video game, which would it be? "I don't know, because all my favourite games are terrifying killing games, so I don't think I'd want to go in there — although all my dreams are action-adventure lately. But I think I would pick something more like golf or 'the Sims' or something, where I can socialize and not be scared.

Kids' movie is about mid-life crisis: Reilly

Wreck-It Ralph. Film about a video game bad guy has Boogie Nights actor voicing the main character

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

To hear John C. Reilly tell it, Wreck-It Ralph — in which he voices the titular video game bad guy who leaves his game on a quest to become a hero instead — is a movie about a midlife crisis. But the folks in marketing at Disney probably don't want to put that on the posters, he admits.

How much of a video game fan were you before this movie?
You know, I think there's not enough hours in the day these days to play video games, having a family and stuff — especially given how complicated they are. Just learning the game takes hours at this point. But it certainly made a big impact on my life when I was a kid. I'm of a generation that was there when Space Invaders first came out. Maybe there was a game before that one, but to me that was the huge game-changer. I just think it's hard for people to appreciate these days what a big change that was, because there were no computers,

John C. Reilly has always wondered what the cherries in Pac Man tasted like. HANDOUT

Quoted

"To tell you the truth, the idea of being trapped in a video game seems kind of nightmarish to me."
John C. Reilly

no cellphones. I didn't even have a VCR at that point, so the idea that you could manipulate something on a television screen? Just that alone, let alone what the game was about and how cool the game was, just the ability to do that was huge. And you kind of had to use your imagination back then. I think [the graphics] did seem realistic — compared to Pong, you know? The first game, I guess, was Pong, before Space Invaders.

If you could disappear into a game yourself, which would you choose?
To tell you the truth, the idea of being trapped in a video game seems kind of nightmarish to me. I mean, they're all a fight for survival. I think life is enough like that already. That said ... I don't know. I have always wondered what those cherries tasted like in Pac Man.

It's been 15 years since Boogie Nights came out.
It has? You know, as Bob Dylan said, I'm an artist, I don't look back. Or something like that. He said, "She's an artist, she don't look back." Yeah, I don't spend too much time watching stuff I've done, to tell you the truth. It just makes you feel old.

I don't think you're old.
Well, I'm older than I was 15 years ago.

Honoured. Carly Rae Jepsen named Billboard's Rising Star

Carly Rae Jepsen. GETTY IMAGES

Carly Rae Jepsen has had a breakout year, and now she's being rewarded by Billboard, which has named her its Rising Star of 2012.

The Call Me Maybe singer will be honoured at Billboard's annual Women in Music event, to be held in New York City on Nov. 30. She'll join Katy Perry, who has been named Woman of the Year.

In a statement Thursday, Jepsen says she was influenced by many female artists and hopes to inspire budding musicians the way her heroes inspired her. Jepsen says she is truly honoured by the award.

Previous recipients include Nicki Minaj and Lady Gaga. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three songs for the weekend: Neil Young, Indian Handcrafts, The Scenics

It's an all-Canadian list this week that includes a rock legend, a lost gem and a promising newcomer

1 Born in Ontario/Neil Young

Two collaborations with Crazy Horse this year? Well, they hadn't worked together since 2004, so they're just making up for lost time. Psychedelic Pill is Young's 35th studio record. And he still remembers where he's from.

2 When You Come Around/ The Scenics

Ancient Toronto punk band (they were at The Last Pogo at the Horseshoe in '78), got back together in 2008 and is set to release Dead Man Walks Down Bayview on Tuesday, their first album since 1979.

3 Bruce Lee/ Indian Handcrafts

Super-cool sludge rock from two-piece Ontario outfit that owns a lot of Uncle Neil's earlier fuzzed out guitar sounds. Civil Disobedience for Losers is worth a listen.

Don't waste your money.

Timberlake under fire over joke wedding video

Justin Timberlake is under fire for a joke video played at his $6.5 million wedding to Jessica Biel that featured Los Angeles homeless people offering the happy couple well wishes, according to Gawker. The eight-minute video, Greetings from Your Hollywood Friends Who Just Couldn't Make It, was produced by Timberlake's friend Justin Huchel and features toothless men saying, "Justin and Jessica, I haven't seen you for a long time. I hope the wedding goes fine for you. My gift is in the mail."

Huchel's attorney insists it's all in good fun, telling the website, "Mr. Huchel made (the) video to be used and exhibited privately at Justin Timberlake's wedding as a private joke without Mr. Timberlake's knowledge."

Taylor Swift and Conor Kennedy part ways quietly

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Well, this is awkward. Just weeks after Taylor Swift, 22, purchased a $4.5 million dollar home in Hyannis Port, Mass., to be closer to her new boyfriend, Conor Kennedy, 18, Us Weekly is reporting they have split up.

"They quietly parted ways a while ago," a friend of Swift's tells Us Weekly. "It was just a distance thing. No hard feelings. They're fine."

Apparently, Swift was busy promoting her new album Red and wasn't able to see much of Kennedy. That, and the dude is 18 and a junior in high school, so he has some time before he needs to be serious with any global pop stars. And really, this is great for Swift. I bet she's writing a new song right at this very moment and wondering what rhymes with "Catholic."

Spears' former manager claims she used hard drugs during meltdown

New light is being shed on Britney Spears' infamous 2007 head-shaving meltdown. Former manager Sam Lufti — who is suing Spears and her family for libel, defamation, battery, intentional infliction of emotional distress and breach of contract — claims that the singer had been using hard drugs at the time and was worried a judge might request a test of her hair, possibly leading to her losing custody of her young children, according to the Daily Beast. "She told me she wanted to get clean, but she was struggling with it," Lufti said on the stand this week. "I told her she needed to do it. I explained to her that society is not going to tolerate a mother with two kids abusing drugs."

Dan Aykroyd has been called lots of things during his career: Not Ready For Primetime Player, Blues Brother, Ghostbuster, bar owner and winemaker.

As if those weren't enough titles to make his business card the size of a pizza carton, a few years ago he added distiller to his resumé.

Not that he's set up a still in his garage. Aykroyd's working with a company in Newfoundland to create Crystal Head Vodka ($44.98 - $54.99), using the province's pristine water.

What really sets Crystal Head apart from the rest of the neutral spirit pack is during the final stage of the quadruple-distillation process (which is unique in itself), the booze is filtrated through 500-million year-old quartz crystals known as Herkimer diamonds.

Apparently that's a good thing because the output has no additives, is as smooth as silk and mixes like a dream — or should I say nightmare?

With Halloween around the corner, the coolest part of this vodka is its bottle. It is shaped like a human skull — kind of like the ones in the last Indiana Jones movie — which makes it the perfect base for a very bloody mary or caesar.

Make your party a haunting good time

Halloween. Celeb chef Andrea Nicholson offers tips for throwing an awesomely terrifying gathering

DAN CLAPSON
life@metronews.ca

Halloween isn't just for kids; adults deserve to have a blast too. Whether you're 21 or 61 (or even 91), a good Halloween party is the only way to bid adieu to October.

Owner of Killer Condiments (killercondiments.com) and Food Network Canada chef Andrea Nicholson is known for her time on Top Chef Canada and whipping restaurants into shape on the new season of Restaurant Takeover.

The busy chef filled us in on how to make the most out of your Halloween party this year.

What's your favourite part about Halloween?
My favourite part is putting my costume together. I always buy my costumes at second-hand stores. They are great for inspiration and always deliver hilarious ensembles. Not to mention, the costumes are cheap.

Any good ideas for a home-made twist on a traditional Halloween candy?
The Halloween treat I looked forward to the most as a kid was those small bags of potato chips. Homemade chips are so easy to make. Fry up some thinly sliced Yukon gold potatoes, season them with a mixture of sea salt, cayenne pepper and a pinch of sugar. They are spicy and sweet and so addictive.

Chef Andrea Nicholson. SUBMITTED

What are three essentials to throwing a Halloween party?
A great playlist, costumes are mandatory and delicious food.

What's an easy dish you can make look spooky?
Asian Congee. Although tasty, it always looks murky and unknown. You can easily hide some scary ingredients inside.

There's a fine line between Halloween-esque dishes and ones that are too gross to eat. What's the grossest thing you've ever seen offered up at a party?
I went to a '70s-themed party and people were asked to bring a dish inspired by the era. A friend of mine made a cottage cheese, mayo, lime Jell-O, pineapple and marshmallow salad. It was wrong on so many levels, the worst part was the texture of the lettuce and Jell-O together.

Finally, the most important question ... trick or treat?
TREAT, all the way!

3. For face, press on candy corn nose, mini candy-coated chocolates for eyes and make a stitched mouth with chocolate sprinkles.

- 12 tart shells
- 1 pkg (250 g) white cake mix
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) vanilla frosting
- 6 vanilla sugar wafers, cut into 7-cm (2 3/4-inch) lengths, then halved lengthwise

Top Four Insurance Discounts Revealed

Discounts you might not be aware of and how to get them.

Discounts are the quickest and easiest way to reduce your insurance premiums, but you may be unsure sure which discounts are available and how to qualify for them. These top discounts can save you a lot of money and qualifying for them is easier than you'd think.

Multi-Policy Discount – This discount goes beyond having two cars on one policy. You may qualify for a discount on your car insurance and on your home insurance when you have both policies with the same insurance company. It is the easiest way to reduce your overall insurance bill; simply purchase multiple policies with the same company.

Longevity Discount – Most insurance companies offer discounts to customers who have kept a policy with them for a long period of time. Keep in mind that it doesn't hurt to shop around for quotes and compare – the savings that you could receive with another insurance company could outweigh the longevity discount.

Safety Features Discounts – Each insurance company has its own list of safety features that would qualify for a discount. Common features include installing winter tires or an approved anti-theft device. There are also standard safety features that new cars are equipped with – anti-lock brakes, front and side airbags as well as a passenger seat air bag that can turn off; making it safer for young passengers.

Good Driver Discount – It pays to keep a safe driving record. Some car insurance companies will offer a discount for keeping your driving record clean for a set number of years. In some cases, this discount may increase over time as you continue to maintain that record. The discount can be substantial in some cases.

Be sure to ask for these discounts when obtaining insurance. And remember, the very best way to keep your insurance premiums low is to shop around for better rates. Insurance quoting sites like InsuranceHotline.com can help by comparing your insurance rate against over 30 car insurance companies to find you a lower rate available for your driving profile.

Stern announces plan to retire

NBA commissioner David Stern will retire on Feb. 1, 2014, 30 years after he took charge of the league. He will be replaced by deputy commissioner Adam Silver.

The announcement came at a NBA board of governors meeting Thursday.

Stern, 70, told owners during their two days of meetings of his plans and the board unanimously decided Silver would be his successor.

"I decided that things are in great shape and there's an organization in place that will ultimately be led by Adam that is totally prepared to take it to the next level," Stern said.

Chan has a new coaching team

In his final full season before the 2014 Sochi Games, Patrick Chan has new choreographers, two new programs, and a new coaching arrangement with Kathy Johnson.

He captured his second consecutive world title last spring in Nice, France, and literally the next day coach Christy Krall resigned, citing a difference in coaching philosophies. His coaches are now Johnson — who had been assuming a larger role with Chan last season — and Eddie Shipstad.

Giants up 2-0 with Bumgarner and a bunt

MLB. Bounces belong to San Francisco, which closes within two wins of World Series title

Game 2

Giants	Tigers

Madison Bumgarner pitched two-hit ball over seven innings, Brandon Crawford drove in the go-ahead run with a double-play grounder after a key bunt stopped just fair along the third-base line, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Detroit Tigers 2-0 on Thursday to take a 2-0 World Series lead.

Bumgarner, who lost both his starts in the NL playoffs, struck out eight and walked two, and Santiago Casilla and Sergio Romo finished with perfect relief.

Hunter Pence led off the seventh with a single off Doug Fister, and reliever Drew Smyly walked Brandon Belt. Gregor Blanco's bunt stopped on the dirt up the third-base line, three to four inches fair. With the infield in at the corners, Crawford grounded to second baseman Omar Infante.

Pence added a sacrifice fly in the eighth off Octavio Dotel.

Mid-season acquisition Anibal Sanchez starts for the Tigers and Ryan Vogelsong for San Francisco when the Series resumes in Detroit on Saturday night.

After tying the Series record by homering three times during San Francisco's 8-3 win in the opener, the Giants' Pablo Sandoval was 1-for-3 with a sixth-inning single and an intentional walk.

Detroit's best scoring chance came in the second, when Prince Fielder was thrown out at the plate trying to score on Delmon Young's double. Fister remained in the game after getting hit on the head by Blanco's line drive in the bottom half.

Giants manager Bruce Bochy showed faith in Bumgarner, who was 0-2 with an 11.25 ERA in two playoff appearances, instead of starting two-time Cy Young Award winner Tim Lincecum, relegated mostly to a relief role after going 10-15 during the regular season.

League pulls 50-50 offer off the table

NHL. Deal called for even split of hockey-related revenue for the next six or seven years

Now the NHL is skating backwards.

The league is withdrawing its last offer now that a self-imposed deadline to save a full 82-game regular season with playoffs has passed.

It's a matter of raising the stakes in what has become a game of chicken with NHL players.

"I think owners want us to be fearful of missing another year," said Calgary Flames forward Mike Cammalleri. "Guys unanimously feel the same way. The lockout feels like a shakedown. That's kind of the feeling across the board."

Cammalleri, working out in Toronto, told the Torstar News Service he can't understand why the NHL wants more than the $800 million in concessions the players have offered.

Calgary Flame Mike Cammalleri skates with his cousin's bantam hockey team Oct. 4 in Richmond Hill. Cammalleri said on Thursday the lockout "feels like a shakedown" by the NHL. RENE JOHNSTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

"There's no good answer to why except: 'We think we can lock you out and your careers are short and we can shake you down,'" he said. "It's not a good feeling."

The league didn't immediately respond to a request for comment, but deputy commissioner Bill Daly told ESPN he expected to notify the players' association about the league's decision.

"We're going to take it back internally and figure out where we go from here," said Daly. "This proposal no longer works because it was a proposal to save 82 games. We have to rethink where we are, and what type of season we're looking at."

Agent Allan Walsh, one of the league's fiercest critics, dismissed the move on his Twitter feed, saying it was out of the "owners' playbook: Deadline passes, take offer off table, give players reduced offer, tell players it's only going to get worse."

Head smart. Hockey Canada releases concussion app

Hockey Canada has launched a new smartphone app aimed at reducing brain injuries in the sport.

Available in both English and French, and with versions for adults and kids, the app includes medically approved information on everything from concussion symptoms to return-to-play protocol.

"You can have your phone on the bench — it's that close," said Hockey Canada president Bob Nicholson. "It's right in the (coach or trainer's) hands."

In development for more than a year, the app is available for BlackBerry, iPhone and Android and can be downloaded for free from Hockey Canada's website, BlackBerry's App World, iTunes or the Google Play Store.

Staying current

One of the benefits of the app is that Hockey Canada has the ability to update it immediately with new advances made in the industry.

- Nicholson was also touting it as a resource for not only coaches and parents, but young players as well.

The app was a joint project with the Canadian Centre for Ethics and Sport, the Coaching Association of Canada and ThinkFirst Pensez d'Abord Canada. It was funded by a $1.5-million grant from the federal government.

Packers' Jennings thinks he'll be back this season

Rest and rehab weren't enough to get Greg Jennings back on the field.

The Green Bay Packers' No. 1 receiver will have surgery Tuesday to repair a torn abdominal muscle that has kept him out most of the season. He said recovery from the procedure is not season-ending.

"Honestly, I'm over being bummed about it," Jennings said Thursday. "I need to take care of it to 100 per cent, and that's the process I'm taking."

Toronto offence appears poised to seal playoff spot; Ticats bid farewell to ancient stadium; Als mis-manage low-blow repercussion

CFL EXTRA POINTS
Dan Toth
toronto@metronews.ca

Argos ready to go on attack

The Double Blue can clinch second in the East with a win in one of their two remaining games, and while they've fallen short of first place, there are positives to build on. The offence is more dangerous with Ricky Ray back from injury, and the return of Chad Kackert provides a more balanced attack.

B.C.'s Buono finds another gem

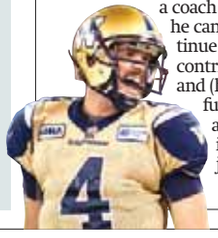
It should be no surprise that Lions backup Mike Reilly excelled in his first CFL start last week. Reilly, who completed 19-of-28 passes for 276 and two TDs, is one more example of GM Wally Buono's ability to identify top talent at QB. The 27-year-old Reilly is already being mentioned as an expansion-draft prospect for the new Ottawa franchise in 2014.

Ticats' time at Ivor Wynne winds down

The Ticats will bid farewell to Ivor Wynne Stadium on Saturday afternoon when Winnipeg visits for the final CFL game at the old barn. While the day will be reserved for nostalgic memories of the great games and legendary players who toiled there, the stadium is an ancient relic, as a photo essay on the CFL's website illustrates.

Pierce isn't the future in Winnipeg

Buck Pierce is being touted for his leadership abilities after returning to the lineup to beat Toronto last week, but that doesn't change the fact that the fragile passer can't be the Bombers QB of the future in Winnipeg. If his leadership skills are so prominent, why not turn him into a coach so he can continue to contribute and (hopefully) avoid injury.



Esks groom ground game for weather

A solid ground game is never more important than this time of year, when playing conditions can be miserable. Needing one win to guarantee a playoff spot, the Esks have solidified their running game by re-acquiring Cory Boyd to replace Hugh Charles. Boyd and Jerome Messam will share the duties this weekend in Montreal and maybe into the post-season.

Emry's excuses ring hollow

Linebacker Shea Emry's apology on Twitter for punching Saskatchewan lineman Brendon Labatte in the groin was inadequate and lame. The league fined Emry for his actions, but Als management is an embarrassment for not forcing Emry to stand in front of the cameras and offer a real apology for his despicable actions.

Sinclair nominated for top prize

FIFA. Canadian bench boss John Herdman also nominated for coach-of-the-year award in women's soccer

Canadian captain Christine Sinclair is among the 10 candidates for the most prestigious individual honour in women's soccer.

She was on the early nomination list for the FIFA Women's World Player of the Year award Thursday.

Canadian coach John Herdman was one of 10 nominees for the FIFA World Coach of the Year for Women's Football.

Shortlists

- Three-candidate shortlists are to be announced Nov. 29 in Sao Paulo after voting by national-team coaches and captains, plus invited journalists.
- Winners are to be named at FIFA's annual gala in Zurich on Jan. 7.

Sinclair scored 23 goals in 22 matches and led all players with six goals at the London Olympics. The 29-year-old from Burnaby, B.C., had a hat trick in a tense 4-3 semifinal loss in extra time to the Americans.

FIFA has since banned Sinclair for four matches for her conduct after the match.

Herdman guided Canada to an Olympic bronze medal. He helped the team post a record of 14 wins, seven losses and one draw this year.

Four players from the gold-medal-winning American team were also nominated. They are Abby Wambach, Alex Morgan, Carli Lloyd and Megan Rapinoe.

No American has won since Mia Hamm in 2001 and '02, the first years that FIFA made the women's award. Wambach placed third last time behind Homare Sawa, of 2011 World Cup winner Japan, and Brazil forward Marta.

Downing's rare goal lifts Liverpool to win

Liverpool put its Europa League campaign back on track by beating big-spending Anzhi Makhachkala 1-0 on Thursday, and Inter Milan broke through Partizan Belgrade's resistance late on to win by the same score line.

Stewart Downing scored a rare goal from outside the penalty area to clinch Liverpool's victory.

The five-time winners of the more illustrious European Cup had lost two of their three matches in the Europa League but are now at the top of Group A.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
You have a secret – something even your best friends don't know about. Keep it that way. Knowledge is power and the less others know about what you are up, to the better. Not that it's bad, of course.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
The more you help a friend or neighbour today, the more you will help yourself. So, be tolerant of their failings and be prepared to give them the benefit of the doubt. Your fates are closely entwined.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
If you are serious about changing the habits of a lifetime, the approaching full moon will help you make the transition. But the effort must come from you and it must come quick or the opportunity will be gone.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You have lots of energy and even more enthusiasm at the moment but do you have a target worth aiming for? Creatively and artistically this is a great time of year for you, so start building that masterpiece.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Some kind of emotional upheaval is likely today but that need not be a bad thing. In fact, it could be good in that it forces long-term resentments out into the open where they can at last be dealt with.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Your social life is looking good at the moment but you are advised not to get carried away. If you burn the candle at both ends now, you could be too slow to take advantage of an opportunity on the weekend.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
There is a good chance that you will come into money over the next few days, and there is an equally good chance that you will waste it on some luxury item you don't really need. Still, easy come, easy go.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You will be extremely demanding today, both of yourself and of other people. If you have faith in your own abilities — and you do — there is precious little you cannot achieve. Reach for the stars and own them.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You need to rise above setbacks and see the positive in everything that happens. If you can do that today, the approaching full moon won't do you much harm. And you'll be in a position to help others.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
The most important thing now is that you refuse to jump to conclusions. You certainly should not condemn people just because they approach life from a different direction or perspective.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You can accomplish great things over the next few days but you will also need to ignore the negative vibes that come from a work colleague or even your employer. You can do it.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You have total faith in your own abilities and that's just as well because you're surrounded by people who don't share your upbeat outlook on life. How do you best deal with them? You ignore them.
